A record-breaking first-day crowd braved bad weather yesterday morning to welcome Miss Ruth Chambers, expert, to conduct demonstration on simple methods of preparing rare "Stream-Lined Menus."

The enthusiasm of the crowd ran high through the beautiful style show preceding the cooking class and the audience was held spellbound by the magic of Miss Chambers' lectures and demonstrations.

Comment heard following the class yesterday was the same that has been noted after other sessions of Miss Chambers' cooking school here:

"How good that food must taste."

"I know my family will like all those dishes."

"It looks so easy the way she prepares them."

"I believe I can cook just like that in my kitchen."

And that is one of the secrets of the popularity of Miss Chambers' lectures and demonstrations. She uses simple methods to prepare the most tempting dishes and her explanations and the printed recipes given the audience each day are so clear and understandable that anyone can duplicate the apparently magic feats of cookery with utmost ease and with a saving of time.

Economy in cooking is another feature which Miss Chambers brought out convincingly yesterday.

"There is a meat cut to suit every pocketbook, but a lower price does not indicate less food value," she declared. One of the features about meat, she pointed out, is the fact that economy in buying does not mean that an inferior grade or one with less nutrition value is served.

The same food value and sometimes even richer flavor is found in the so-called economy cuts of beef, pork and lamb than in those more in demand, and, therefore, higher in price, and Miss Chambers showed her audience the best ways of preparing them as developed by scientific research and study.

"Stream-Lined Menus" is the subject of this morning's cooking class.

Civilians Promise Model Camp for Girl Scouts Here

Members of the Atlanta Girl Scouts Council yesterday met with the Civitan Club for their annual report on scouting activities. The Civitan Club, which annually aids the Scouts' camp, promised to make the camp a model one for the rest of the nation with a $27,000 campaign. Left to right, Mrs. Frank Quentlin, one of the district commissioners; L. H. Fitzpatrick and LeRoy Wynne, officials of the Civitan Club, and Mrs. Trenton Tunnell, chairman of the camp committee.

$27,000 PLEDGED TO CAMP CIVITANIA

Civilians To Raise Sum For Girl Scout Holiday Spot During This Year.

By RALPH MCGILL.
Members of the Atlanta Girl Scout council yesterday received with applause the statement by Civitan Club officials that the club's goal for the year would be $27,000, to make the council's camp a model for the rest of the nation.

The announcement was made at the annual meeting of the council, held in conjunction with the club at the Atlanta Athletic Club. The Civitan Club annually aids the camp which is named, in their honor, Camp Civitania.

Probably no finer work is being done in Atlanta than that by the Girl Scout council and its assistants.

Mrs. Trenton Tunnell sounded the theme which inspires the workers, when she said:

"In this work it is possible to know and see the good that's being done by seeing it in the faces of the children and in their development in school."

Bright Side of Youth.
In an era when child brides and crime by children seem to occupy much of the news, it is important to know that work such as is done by the Girl Scout officials is an articulate expression of what really is the aim and ambition of the girls who come under their influence.

It is important to know that in Atlanta last year 195 girls obtained merit badges for proficiency in home-making. And that hundreds of others were, and are, working toward those same merit badges.

The home-making merit badges are not easy to obtain. They represent actual work done by the girls in their homes and camps. They involve such old-fashioned arts as sweeping floors.

Protested Salute Of Nazi Repeated

LONDON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—King George VI was saluted in the Nazi fashion again today by German Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop, but officials said the government did not consider the matter in a serious light.

The ambassador, who provoked adverse newspaper criticism when he used the Nazi greeting at a diplomatic reception last Thursday, repeated the salute at the new sovereign's first important reception, a levee.

Other ambassadors and diplomats bowed as they were presented to the king in the elaborate throne room of St. James's palace.

Ribbentrop's turn came, he extended his arm straight out.

Many present took no notice. British authorities said precedent permits a foreign envoy to use his own country's customs on such occasions.

COUNTY PROBLEM IS INSTITUTE TOPIC

Speaker Hits Sentiment as Reason for Retention of Multiple State Units.

PROGRAM FOR TODAY
10 A. M.—Murray Seasongood, "The Outlook for Local Government."

11 A. M.—Round Tables: "Modern Public Opinions"; "Social Security."

2:30 P. M.—Round Tables: "Farm Tenancy in the South"; "County Government in the South"; "Municipal Government."

8 P. M.—Dr. Raymond Buell, "Europe's Crisis—The Danger to America."

Sentimentality as the basis for continuation of Georgia's numerous small counties was ridiculed by Thomas H. Reed, consultant of the National Municipal League, at the Emory Institute of Citizenship yesterday as he endeavored to give both the reasons for the lack of improvement and the benefits that would arise from proper legislation.

"Counties exist for the people, not people for the county," Dr. Reed declared, adding that the traditions surrounding the "seamed and scarred" courthouse held back many improvements.

Dr. Reed spoke at the morning session of the program and was introduced by Dr. C. B. Gossnell, director of the institute. Round-table topics during the day included "The Supreme Court and the Constitution," discussed by Judge Edgar E. Watkins, Atlanta attorney; Dr. Rupert Vance's continuation of the discussion on the farm tenancy problem, and the debate on the problem of county government in the south under the leadership.

11 FEARED KILLED AS PLANE PLUNGES INTO 'FRISCO BAY

Large United Airliner Disappears in 10 Feet of Water Close to Shore After Los Angeles Hop.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A United Air Lines plane bearing 11 persons fell into San Francisco bay tonight, a short distance from its destination at Mills field. The fate of eight passengers and the crew of three could not be learned immediately.

Four coast guard boats sped to the area off the airport, 15 miles south of here. Searchers reported they were hampered by darkness, and needed searchlights aboard the boats.

The big twin-motored liner left Los Angeles at 6 p. m. (8 p. m. Atlanta time) and was due here at 9 p. m., a few moments after the accident.

Passenger List.
Airlines headquarters here released the following list of passengers aboard the plane: J. E. Gilmore, Los Angeles, engineer; R. Meyers, New York city; M. Fontana, San Francisco; M. Lorge, Los Angeles; A. R. Thompson, pilot, Burbank, Cal.; Joe de Cesar, co-pilot, North Hollywood, Cal.

Ruth Kimmel, stewardess, Oakland, Cal., recently transferred from the eastern division.

Officials at Mills field said the plane hit the water after an apparently vain attempt to reach the landing field.

Weather Is Clear.
Sixteen policemen from San Francisco were ordered to the field and ambulances were held in readiness. The weather was clear.

R. E. Neghribon, an eyewitness, said the plane appeared to plunge directly into the water about a quarter of a mile offshore.

Neghribon, an express company employee, was waiting for the ship to land to bring air express packages into San Francisco.

"A person in from the south," he said, "and then for some reason circled."

FARM-TO-MARKET PAVING IS PLANNED

434-Mile Network of Hard-Surface Roads Is Sought in Fulton County

Plans for paving a 434-mile network of Fulton county farm-to-market roads at a cost of approximately $3,000,000 will be ready for county commissioners to submit to federal authorities for approval Saturday, it was learned yesterday.

This program, if approved by county and federal authorities, will mean the paving of 161.53 miles of mail and school roads in old Campbell county; 147.5 miles in old Milton county and approximately 125 miles in old Fulton.

Projects in old Milton and old Campbell have already been listed and plans have been drawn by E. E. Yantis, county surveyor. He is working now on blueprints for the old Fulton county projects, there being short roads which will connect the main roads. There are only two paved roads in each of the first named districts, Yantis said.

Efforts are being made also by city and county authorities to obtain the necessary $75,000 for securing right-of-way on North Avenue so the $470,000 already allocated by the federal government for an underpass at the intersection of North Avenue and the highway toward Mottville.

FRANCO REJECTS PLEA FOR TRUCE

Large Number of Red Prisoners Reported Exe- cuted by Firing Squads.

WITH REBEL ARMIES IN MALAGA, Wednesday, Feb. 10.—(UP)—A Loyalist request for an armistice to end the slaughter of Spain's civil war was reported today to have been rejected by General Francisco Franco, Rebel dictator.

Franco, his hopes of a swift victory raised by the capture of Malaga and the reported cutting of the important Madrid-Valencia highway, was said to have demanded "unconditional surrender" of the Loyalist government before ceasing hostilities.

At Valencia Spanish Loyalists decried a Rebel troop train carrying 1,000 German soldiers and sent it crashing into a ravine near Elhueron in Cordoba province, it was reported early today.

Railroads Wrecked.
A railway porter, who escaped from Cordoba to the Loyalist headquarters at Andujar, said Loyalist bands were wrecking railroad lines throughout the southern Rebel territory.

The Loyalist offer of an armistice came while a half dozen military courts began passing judgment on hundreds of Loyalist soldiers seized when General Gonzalo Queipo de Llano's Rebel armies captured Malaga.

Large numbers of Loyalists among the Rebel prisoners were reported to have been executed by firing squads.

Insurgent officers said 4,000 Loyalists had been arrested so far and that the number probably would reach between 10,000 and 20,000.

About 15,000 Loyalists fled to the rugged mountains behind Malaga but were expected to surrender rather than face starvation.

Some of the captive Loyalists were seized by "mopping up" squads as they fled in panic into the Sierra Nevada that flank this strategic seaport, or along the Mediterranean highway toward Motril.

Others, attempting to hide their identity, fled toward the hills but returned and mixed with the crowds in the streets shouting "Arriba Espana!" Many were arrested.

General Queipo de Llano, attempting to restore order to the city as quickly as possible and push his offensive further along the coast toward Motril.

AUTO CONFEREES MAKE PROGRESS

Negotiators Will Recon- vene Today; Both Sides in Excellent Spirits.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Feb. 9.—The twelfth session of the General Motors strike peace parley recessed tonight at midnight with no apparent solution to the prolonged deadlock.

Frank Murphy said, the conference would reconvene at 9 a. m. Atlanta time tomorrow.

"Not a great deal separates them now," the Governor said in announcing that the same participants in the parley would be present at the thirteenth session.

Asked by reporters which side was making concessions, he replied: "As I have said from the beginning, both sides are doing their best and reveal an earnestness in trying to settle the matter."

The Governor said representatives of both sides were "in excellent spirits."

John L. Lewis, strike dictator-general and chairman of the Committee on Industrial Organization, of which the United Automobile Workers, the striking union, is an affiliate, left the conference about a half-hour before 11 o'clock.

Later it was learned that he left because of personal obligations and his early departure was approved by the Governor.

A source close to the conference said the parley was proceeding "along more definite lines" and that the atmosphere had been "considerably clarified."

The one big gap was understood still to be the question of extent of union recognition as the collective bargaining agency for General Motors employees.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR BIG STEEL STRIKE
PLINT, Mich., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Raymond M. Ladd, president of the Illinois district of the United Mine Workers, told striking automobile workers today that plans were being made for a steel strike which "will shake the foundation of the capitalist structure of the nation."

ROOSEVELT BARS APPEAL TO NATION

Two State Legislatures
Oppose Plan; Robinson
Proposes Compromise,
Favoring 75-Year Limit.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Representative E. E. Cox, of Georgia, was named chairman of a group of 10 house Democrats which organized a bloc tonight to fight President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the supreme court.

Cox was authorized to name a steering committee, which he said he would do tomorrow. Representatives who attended the conference included Pettengill Democrat, Indiana; Mansfield, Democrat, Texas; May, Democrat, Kentucky; Robertson, Democrat, Virginia; Smith, Democrat, Virginia; Pearson, Democrat, Tennessee; Chapman, Democrat, Kentucky; Drewry, Democrat, Virginia; and Peterson, Democrat, Georgia.

Opposition to the President's Reorganization proposals grew apace as administration leaders prepared to press for speedy house approval tomorrow of less controversial provisions of the court reorganization plans.

Two state legislatures voiced disapproval of increasing personnel of the supreme court and Representative Celler, Democrat, New York, ranked majority member of the house judiciary committee, broke a long silence to announce his opposition to the reorganization plan. "It is a dangerous precedent," he declared.

Representative Summers, Democrat, Texas, who conferred only yesterday with President Roosevelt, announced a new strategy late today.

Will Call Pension Bill.
He said he would call up for debate and passage his bill to permit the supreme court justices to retire on full pay after reaching the age of 70. This would dovetail with the President's proposal to name an additional justice each year.

If time permitted, Summers added, he also would bring up so-called speedup legislation which was approved today by the judiciary committee which he heads. This would authorize the attorney general to participate in lower court cases to prevent private parties, where a constitutional question was involved. It also would give him the right to appeal directly to the supreme court from an adverse district court ruling. Private appeals would not be granted this privilege.

F. D. R. on Sidelines.
President Roosevelt, in his first press conference since his surprise message on the judiciary, said today that he had not talked with any one about speeding up the legislation.

As to urgent requests by some supporters that he seek to rally opinion by a radio address, the President said he was not considering such action.

In response to other questions, he told reporters they would have to be content with his message for the present.

In the capital and the country over, debate continued to center about the President's request for new supreme court members.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, proposed a compromise touching this point. He favored 75 instead of 70 as the age at which a justice should retire or see another appointed. This would permit the President to

HOUSE VOTES TO PAY HAMILTON, HARRISON FOR IDLE MONTHS

Comptroller General Assailed in Senate at Same Time as Seeking Patronage.

The house of representatives yesterday formally approved a bill carrying a special appropriation to pay the salaries of Comptroller General William B. Harrison and State Treasurer George B. Hamilton for the time they were out of office last year as the former was undergoing censure from one member of the senate. The attack on Harrison came as the senate was discussing reconsideration of a bill to give the comptroller more insurance inspectors with which to combat "wildcat" companies.

The reconsideration was ordered by the senate. Senator Walter Harrison, of Millen, objecting to the bill, charged Harrison would "collect more money" if he stayed "in his office and did not politic all over Georgia."

Senators Lindsay, of Decatur, and Ennis, of Milledgeville, came to his defense. Lindsay said: "We have a great comptroller general, and just because he is a state officer is no sign he is a grafter."

Ennis defended Harrison. "The people of Georgia have expressed their confidence in Harrison. I have always found him true and straight to the point."

Senator Harrison further charged that the comptroller general was because "he wants some more patronage, and I told him so yesterday. This thing about saving $1,000,000 is intangible. We don't need to give him any more."

On the other side of the capital, the only address on the special appropriations bill for Harrison and Hamilton came from Speaker Roy V. Harris while the body was in committee of the whole.

Unanimous Vote Asked. Harris appealed for unanimous vote for restoration of their salaries "while these men were kicked out of office by the national guard under the dictatorship of the last administration."

"These two men," he continued, "did more, in my opinion, than anyone else to lift the hand of that infernal dictator from the affairs of Georgia."

"These are not the men to be punished by taking their pay away from them."

The two dummies that the dictator put in should be the ones to be punished and they should be sued for recovery from their bonds for the salaries they received."

He called also for the house "to make an example and let future governors know elective officers are protected in the performance of their duties."

Pay Voted, 126 to 26. By a vote of 126 to 26, the house passed the bill carrying $5,396.67 for Harrison and $5,208.67 for Hamilton.

Several of the "nay" voters explained their ballots, among them Evans, of McDuffie county, who referred to a Supreme court decision saying former Governor Eugene Talmdge acted within his legal authority in removing the two men.

Taunton, of Taylor county, voted "no," he said, because both men had been re-elected to office and "have

Death for Burglary Approved in Senate

Burglary of an occupied home during the night would be an offense punishable by death under a bill passed by the Georgia state senate. The measure provides an alternative sentence of life imprisonment. It was sponsored by Senator J. H. Pruett, who has a companion bill in the senate providing the death penalty for armed highway robbery.

been rewarded enough by the people in being returned.

Both were dismissed from office by Talmdge last February 24 when they refused to allow him to withdraw treasury funds in absence of a legislative appropriations bill.

The senate voted 30-2 to reconsider the insurance inspector bill, but did not take it up immediately. The bill failed to receive a constitutional majority when voted on yesterday.

HECK OUSTER MEASURE IS PASSED BY SENATE

Bill Would Force Lone Talmdge Off Georgia Highway Board.

As Governor Rivers spent the entire day in session with the new state highway board, the senate yesterday adopted without a dissenting vote a bill admittedly designed to remove Commissioner John A. Heck, the last remaining Talmdge appointee on the board.

The bill, sponsored by Senator David S. Atkinson, of Savannah, goes through the motions of changing the highway department set-up, calling the new three-man directing body a "commission" instead of a "board."

At the time he introduced the bill two weeks ago Senator Atkinson said he would not press for passage if Governor Rivers gained full and complete control of the department. The bill was sent to the house yesterday and leaders said it would be placed on the calendar for early consideration.

Meanwhile the senate also adopted two of the administration's bill for reorganization of the common school system, the first providing for the seven-month term for all schools and the second setting up an 11-member state board of education to be headed by the Governor.

Despite the passage of the Atkinson bill in the senate and its impending approval by the house, close associates of Heck, who already has been out of office for a month, said he would not step out and clear the way for a Rivers' appointee on the board from north Georgia.

Speaking before the general assembly several weeks ago, Governor Rivers said he wanted Heck out of office if it took reorganization of the highway department to effect this result.

Since their appointments several weeks ago, Chairman W. L. Miller and Commissioner Jim Gillis, of the highway board, have been working on their new set-up which includes E. Taunton, of Taylor county, voted "no," he said, because both men had been re-elected to office and "have

Hartsfield Urges All Atlantans To Have Fingerprints Recorded

Constitution Lead in Movement Lauded by Mayor as He Points Out Advantages in Having Identification Proof Always on File.

Atlantans were urged yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield to "get fingerprints recorded" for identification in connection with their insurance, and possibly in many cases with their social security accounts.

"Still another is that no one ever knows when he may be the victim of amnesia or some form of insanity and forget what his name is. The problem of identifying amnesia victims would be relatively simple if everyone was fingerprinted," he declared.

The constitution is advocating fingerprinting for every resident of Atlanta as a part of the national movement for permanent identification of all inhabitants.

The mayor urged that Atlantans avail themselves of the opportunity of having this record made and filed in Atlanta and Washington.

"Another important reason for permanent file."

"Still another is that no one ever knows when he may be the victim of amnesia or some form of insanity and forget what his name is. The problem of identifying amnesia victims would be relatively simple if everyone was fingerprinted," he declared.

The constitution is advocating fingerprinting for every resident of Atlanta as a part of the national movement for permanent identification of all inhabitants.

SALES TAX BILL GOES TO ALABAMA SENATE

2 Per Cent Levy Measure Moves Into Position for Final Action.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 9.—(AP) A two per cent general sales tax bill, already passed by the house, moved into position for final action in the Alabama senate tomorrow when the finance and taxation committee reported it back today without recommendation.

The committee rejected several amendments which would have added exemptions to those provided by the house.

Revisions in the bill are expected from the floor tomorrow, however, as both administration spokesmen and "economy" legislators have voiced objections to phases of the measure as it now stands.

The finance and taxation committee killed a bill lowering income tax exemptions by indefinitely postponing committee action.

A measure providing for a state civil service system was passed, 20 to 1, by the senate in a brief session following the committee hearing.

TENNESSEE GOVERNOR SIGNS SECURITY ACTS. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(UP)—Tennessee today joined the ranks of states co-operating with the federal social security program as Governor Gordon Browning signed five bills enacted last week by the legislature.

The action brought the list of co-operating states to 43. Estimated to involve an aggregate annual expenditure of $4,000,000, the program provides old age pensions, support for dependent children and the blind and veterans and their widows.

Cate said applications for old age pensions will be taken starting May 1. Actual payments will begin August 1. Maximum monthly payments under the act are $25. Eligible are aged indigents over 65, not inmates of charitable institutions.

SOUTH CAROLINA SOLONS HIT SHERMAN STAMP. COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The South Carolina house of representatives today voted 54 to 43 to adopt a resolution to federal authorities against issuing postage stamps bearing the likeness of General William Tecumseh Sherman.

General Sherman commanded the northern army which captured Columbia at the end of the Civil War, and Confederate historians have charged him with responsibility for burning this city in February, 1865.

CAROLINA TO START TAPPING TAX SOURCES. RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—The general assembly tomorrow will start tapping tax sources to raise approximately $75,000,000 a year to finance record-breaking appropriations.

After five weeks of deliberation, the legislative finance committee concluded its work late today and Representative Victor Bryant, of Durham, chairman of the house revenue group, said he would report the measure favorably tomorrow. The house is expected to act as a committee-of-the-whole to consider the bill, section by section.

"We got in boats and went out there but couldn't find any sign of her."

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Feb. 9.—(AP)—George Stanton Scarlett III filed suit today in superior court for an absolute divorce from Jane Dewalden Cooke Scarlett, member of a prominent Washington, D. C. family. He pleaded two years separation.

The couple was married January 25, 1935. Scarlett, employed in the Cooke home as a companion to the former Miss Cooke's invalid father, eloped with the aid of the bride's sister, Mrs. Cooke, mother of the bride, took out a warrant for Scarlett, charging he had stolen several thousand dollars' worth of jewels.

Mrs. Scarlett accompanied her husband back to Washington to answer the charges of grand larceny, and remained by him through the trial, in which he was acquitted. After the trial, however, Scarlett returned here alone and has lived here since.

RAYBURN LAUDS PLANS TO REORGANIZE COURT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Representative Rayburn, of Texas, the house Democratic leader, said tonight that President Roosevelt's proposal for reorganizing the government's executive machinery was designed to "substitute convenience for confusion."

In a radio address, Rayburn said that after the reorganization the public would be able to make fuller use of the increased service the government has provided in recent years.

County Coroner W. N. Breckenridge gave an opinion of accidental death by hanging.

Investigators said the child had apparently climbed into the car, thrust his head through the insecurely fastened front door and pushed it open by his weight.

appoint five new justices in the near future. Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, and Brandeis already are past 75. Justice Sutherland will be 75 on March 25, and Chief Justice Hughes on April 11.

The apparent balance on the important senate judiciary committee, which begins consideration of the matter next Monday, swung during the day away from the President's proposal.

Opposition expressed by Senators Steiwer, Republican, Oregon, and Connally, Democrat, Texas, brought to eight the number of committee members who have voiced either flat disapproval or some criticism. Five have expressed approval and the remainder of the 18 members have been non-committal.

"The effort to stack the supreme court must be defeated," Steiwer commented.

Connally declared against increasing the supreme tribunal "to 15 judges, in the method and under the circumstances proposed."

States Petition Congress.

His stand was in line with action taken today by the predominantly Democratic senate in his home state. That body appealed to Texas congressmen to lead their influence and cast their votes against the President's judicial reform legislation. Previously the Texas house of representatives had voted over three to one to kill a resolution commending the President's proposal.

The "Lone Star" legislature was only one of several where action was taken during the day regarding the controversy.

Colorado's house of representatives endorsed the President.

The legislature in Maine—one of the two states lost by Mr. Roosevelt in last fall's election—urged congress to "protect" the supreme court and the federal judiciary "from legislative and executive interference and control."

The Connecticut house of representatives, controlled by Republicans, called upon Connecticut congressmen

First Poll Returns Show Voters In New York Favor Court Revision

56 Per Cent of Ballots Received Approve Enlarged Judiciary in Preliminary Voting of Huge American Institute Survey.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—The first handful of ballots from a far-flung national poll being conducted on the supreme court issue by the American Institute of Public Opinion shows a vote in favor of President Roosevelt's proposal to increase the size of the high tribunal.

The preliminary returns, first trickle of an avalanche of ballots which will continue until the issue is decided, came from New York state only. Of the first 500 received, 281, or 56 per cent, favor the President's plan to re-make the court, while 219, or 44 per cent, are opposed. The question asked was: "Do you favor President Roosevelt's plan to increase the size of the supreme court to make it more liberal?"

Within one hour after the President delivered his historic supreme court message Friday noon the Institute swung its poll-taking machinery into action, and within 24 hours ballots were being printed and distributed. Returns will be reported exclusively in The Constitution.

Besides its nation-wide poll of voters, the Institute is conducting a special survey among a representative cross-section of all lawyers of the country.

The preliminary handful of ballots reported today represents an almost even distribution between New York city and the rest of the state. The balance of the state.

To oppose enlargement of the high court.

South Carolina's house sent to committee a proposal favoring the proposed reorganization.

Support Gained.

In the senate of the United States, the President gained some support along with his losses.

Senator Heering, Democrat, Iowa, issued a statement saying he was favorable to the President's proposal "in a general sense."

"But I shall take no definite position until the measure has been thoroughly debated," he added.

Senator Lee, Democrat, Oklahoma, said he felt expediting cases in the lower courts was "essential."

Senate leaders of the opposition contemplated prolonging the debate as long as possible in the hope of building up public opinion against the President's stand. Already telegrams are pouring into the capitol at double the rate prior to the President's message.

Urges Plea to Labor.

Some presidential supporters said privately they hoped he might appeal directly to labor and the farmers for backing. Aides have asserted he is holding up stronger production control and labor regulating legislation until the judicial reorganization proposals are acted upon.

Farmer leaders attending a national lots indicate opinion is split along party lines. New York city itself, which went Democratic by 4 to 1, in the November presidential election, votes 7 to 3 in favor of President Roosevelt's latest move regarding the court. The rest of the state gave Landon a slight majority in November, and Institute ballots from this area indicate disapproval of the proposed court change.

The relationship between the November election percentages in New York state and today's opinions on the court issue is remarkably close:

New York City.

Per cent democratic (1936) 75%

Per cent favoring enlarged court 70%

Outside New York City.

Per cent republican (1936) 55%

Per cent opposing enlarged court 54%

During the coming weeks a national discussion will take place in the press and radio over the merits of the President's proposal, which is already being called the "super issue of the New Deal." Future returns in the Institute poll may show a quite different result from that of today's preliminary report in New York. Will the west agree with the east? Will southern voters back up the President? Will conservatives in the farm area approve a court reform which some leaders call radical? Is the issue split along age lines? These and other questions will be answered as the Institute's returns pile up.

conference here on new agricultural legislation said today that rigid controls proposed by Secretary Wallace would be stronger than those outlawed by the supreme court when it killed the original AAA.

Hairdressing Makes Pug Noses Beautiful

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 9.—(AP)—There's beauty in a pug nose. Hairdresser Burton Skiles declared tonight—but it takes the proper hair style to bring it out. "It's all very simple," Skiles told the national beauty congress. "To beautify a pug-nosed girl, 'just turn the ends of her curls downward.' If it's a hooked nose, turn the curls up."

"In hair-waving we just reverse the prominent lines of the face," he explained.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Frank Caston, 25-year-old transient from Bovill, Idaho, was discouraged because he could not find work. He swallowed 100 tablets in a suicide attempt. They only made him sick.

Next he slashed his wrists with a razor blade. But still he wasn't satisfied so he leaped from the fourth-floor window of his rooming house, landing on his head in the street.

His skull fractured and weak from loss of blood, Caston was taken to a hospital. He died last night.

REAL ESTATE OWNERS AND DEALERS INVITED TO DISCUSS TAX PLAN

Meeting Set by Hartsfield for This Morning at City Hall.

Real estate owners and dealers will confer with Mayor Hartsfield on local revenue raising legislation this morning at the city hall, it was announced yesterday following pledges of support of the proposed program by the city board of education.

The new group has been invited to discuss the seven proposed bills with Hartsfield and the municipal legislative committee at 10 o'clock, while the citizens committee is to take final action on the program Friday morning.

Dr. Thomas H. Reed, director of the municipal consulting service of the National Municipal League, was engaged yesterday by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce to make a survey of Atlanta's government, its taxation and its needs.

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce announced that "it is our opinion any change in the city structure should be based on a factual study of all potential sources of revenue and methods of effecting economies. Dr. Reed was employed by the Chamber of Commerce, with the cooperation of Mayor Hartsfield, W. R. Ulrich, secretary, said. The expert is in Atlanta attending the Emory University Citizenship Forum.

Members of the Board of Education yesterday told Hartsfield the board and the teachers will support the legislation designed to raise $1,412,000 additional revenue each year provided that not more than one mill of the proposed 2.5 mill city tax rate increase is earmarked for the retirement of the deficit.

It was understood the municipal committee members and the mayor agreed that no money except for the deficit's retirement will be earmarked, thus assuring the school department $330,000 or more of the funds which will be available to the schools.

The division will be headed by Mrs. Robin Wood, of Donalsonville, who will be an assistant to Hamilton Ralls, director of the Bureau of Markets.

Mrs. Wood is the former Miss Dorothy Carlton, of Colquitt county, the daughter of a leading farmer of that section. For several years she has been a supervisor of adult education for the Works Progress Administration.

Weekes is indicted for theft of auto. Carl Weekes, escaped convicted burglar, was indicted for larceny of an automobile yesterday by the Fulton grand jury. Dave Perkins, a companion, was indicted also on the same charge.

The two were charged with stealing a Buick sedan from the home of G. Beaudry on the night of January 9. Weekes was convicted in Fulton superior court last May on burglary charges and was given the maximum 2-to-20-year sentence, which was later reduced to five years. Police reported he escaped from the chain gang two weeks ago.

A total of 24 true bills of indictment were returned by the grand jury yesterday.

Through members of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association suggested to the city board of education that it oppose earmarking any of the prospective funds as a means of strengthening the schools' financial condition, the board pledged support to the mayor's program with one mill earmarked.

Ed S. Cook, president of the board; Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, D. F. McClatchey Jr., board members; Dr. Willis A. Sutton, school superintendent, and T. W. Clift, school business manager, were in the group conferring with Hartsfield yesterday.

The Chamber of Commerce directors declared they were favorably impressed with Hartsfield's policies and urged that the methods employed in retirement of the deficit raising additional revenue be "free from political bias."

After engaging Dr. Reed to make a survey, the board of directors of the chamber asserted their full "indorsement will be deferred pending receipt of Dr. Reed's recommendations." His report will be completed within 10 days or two weeks, it was said.

Mayor Hartsfield has agreed to furnish full and complete data on Atlanta's government to the expert.

Mayor Seeks Closing Of 100 Beer Parlors

Hope that more than 100 beer and wine places in the residential sections will be closed within the year was expressed yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield as he instructed Police Chief M. A. Hornaby to continue enforcement of the Sunday beer and wine ban until ordered otherwise by a court of law.

The mayor's comment came as he inspected a petition for an injunction against enforcement of the law which was filed in Fulton superior court by Ed Lindsey, of a Gordon street address. The hearing on Lindsey's petition will be held Friday in superior court.

"Some of these beer dealers think they are running the city of Atlanta," Hartsfield asserted. "They forget they are operating at the discretion of the mayor and council."

"Well, we will see who is in charge of this city. The city can revoke their licenses without cause. It is a matter solely within the discretion of the city."

yesterday told Hartsfield the board and the teachers will support the legislation designed to raise $1,412,000 additional revenue each year provided that not more than one mill of the proposed 2.5 mill city tax rate increase is earmarked for the retirement of the deficit.

Weekes is indicted for theft of auto. Carl Weekes, escaped convicted burglar, was indicted for larceny of an automobile yesterday by the Fulton grand jury. Dave Perkins, a companion, was indicted also on the same charge.

The two were charged with stealing a Buick sedan from the home of G. Beaudry on the night of January 9. Weekes was convicted in Fulton superior court last May on burglary charges and was given the maximum 2-to-20-year sentence, which was later reduced to five years. Police reported he escaped from the chain gang two weeks ago.

A total of 24 true bills of indictment were returned by the grand jury yesterday.

Through members of the Atlanta Public School Teachers' Association suggested to the city board of education that it oppose earmarking any of the prospective funds as a means of strengthening the schools' financial condition, the board pledged support to the mayor's program with one mill earmarked.

After engaging Dr. Reed to make a survey, the board of directors of the chamber asserted their full "indorsement will be deferred pending receipt of Dr. Reed's recommendations." His report will be completed within 10 days or two weeks, it was said.

BILL FOR LINDY REWARD INTRODUCED IN JERSEY

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Appropriation of $25,000 to pay the reward which New Jersey offered for apprehension of the Lindbergh kidnaper is sought in a bill introduced in the house of assembly to establish "the good faith of the legislature."

The assembly and senate authorized the Governor to offer a reward in 1932. Bruno Richard Hauptmann was executed as the kidnaper a year ago, but the legislature never allotted any money for the reward it promised.

"Failure to provide for the payment of this reward," Assemblyman Haydn Proctor, Monmouth Republican, told the house in offering the bill last night, "has brought about a serious question as to the good faith of the legislature."

The report also will include figures on the first month's operations of the corporation's North Atlantic, Mass., plant. The company is in reorganization.

Referee Peter B. Olney Jr. said Jacob Meadow, counsel for a group of bondholders, had informed him progress had been made in settling differences with creditors over an amended reorganization plan.

It appeared the plan will be financed, it was stated, by the Mercantile Finance Corporation, of Toronto, Canada.

Case Tells of Finding Wife's Body In Bathtub of Home in New York

Hotel Executive Testifies
Against Negro on Trial for Life.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—While spectators strained forward to hear, Frank W. Case describe in Queens county court today how he found the body of his wife in the bathtub of their Jackson Heights apartment last month after she had been beaten and strangled to death.

The 30-year-old hotel executive was one of the first witnesses at the trial of Major Green, 33, negro porter employed in the building who is accused of the murder.

Green's counsel acknowledged at the outset that he committed the crime, but intimated he was driven to it by "a certain something" that happened when he went to the Case apartment to wash windows.

"He struck her, became panicky and does not remember anything after the first blow," said Richard T. Barry in his opening statement. Barry intimated the defense would attempt to show the killing was not premeditated.

Case, obviously struggling to retain his composure, testified he became angry when he tried to telephone his wife the evening of January 11 and there was no response.

Several detectives told of arresting Green two days later when they said it was found his fingerprints matched those found on the bathroom door. Under cross-questioning by defense counsel, Detective James Sullivan denied the prisoner was beaten into making a confession. He acknowledged he had pulled out some of Green's hair so it could be compared with strands found on a bloodstained mechanic's hammer.

BRITAIN TO DELAY COLONIAL ACTION

France Seeking Argument for General European Security.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(UP)—France has obtained a British promise that no formal action on Germany's demand for return of her lost colonies will be taken until agreement has been reached on a plan of general European security, it was learned tonight.

France told London that she wanted full German guarantees on outstanding European problems so the colonial question could be made part of "general political conversations" for peace in Europe.

It was stressed that England and France have only mandatory control over Germany's colonies and that final settlement must rest with the League of Nations, of which Germany is not a member.

The agreements, of which France would make the colonial question a part, is a four-point one:

- 1.—A European peace accord, open to all nations and including Russia and Czechoslovakia.
- 2.—Agreement for general armaments limitation.
- 3.—Germany must abandon her policy of economic isolation.
- 4.—Germany must return to the League of Nations.

ARABS TO CARRY FIGHT ON JEWS TO ENGLAND

JERUSALEM, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Palestine Arabs announced plans tonight to send their own delegation to London to contest findings of the British royal commission which investigated Jewish-Arab disorders here.

Arab leaders asserted they expected the commission to favor the Jews in its report on last year's general strike and resultant rioting in protest against Jewish immigration.

The London delegation, Arab leaders said, would urge quick application to any pro-Arab findings of the royal commission, which recently closed three months of hearings and returned to England. (Its findings have not been announced.)

Members of the Arab group charged that pro-Arab findings of previous commissions were ignored by the British government.

With Arabs generally expressing dissatisfaction with the royal commission's investigation, scattered disorders continued throughout Palestine.

CHILD WEDDING ADVICE DEFENDED BY LAWYER

Tennessee Senate Resolution
Attacks Attorney for Action in Case.

MORRISTOWN, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—A. T. Drinnon, Morristown attorney, today defended his action in advising Charlie Johns, 22-year-old mountaineer, to capitalize on publicity he received in marrying 9-year-old Eunice Winstead.

The attorney was condemned in a resolution adopted by the Tennessee senate last night.

"I am not responsible for this marriage," Drinnon said in a statement. "I was not employed to pass on the question of the propriety of such marriages."

"I have been employed by and represented more than one hundred men charged with murder. I defended them to the best of my ability, but not in a single instance did I approve of murder."

After their marriage was headlined in the daily newspapers, motion picture interests sent their representatives there for news reels. This was resented by the families of these parties, and sought my advice. I told Charlie Johns that there was nothing wrong in the making of their pictures and being paid for them."

Drinnon added that "I have no apologies to make for representing and advising these parties in this unfortunate affair."

TENNESSEE SOLON SEEKS 16-YEAR MARRIAGE LAW

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth O'Dell, only woman member of the Tennessee legislature, expressed opposition tonight to a proposed 14-year minimum age for marrying and said she would seek to fix 16 as the limit.

A bill to fix 14 as the minimum passed the senate last week after newspapers published accounts of the marriage of 9-year-old Eunice Winstead to Charlie Johns, 22, in the remote east Tennessee mountains.

The bill was assigned today to the house social welfare committee, headed by Mrs. O'Dell, for study and recommendation.

"I am going to draft an amendment to the bill to make the minimum 16. Fourteen is too low, and I am not going to stand for it if I can help it."

The pending bill would not affect this or any other marriage already solemnized but would permit nullification of any future ones involving persons under 14.

Canada Dynamites To Relieve Flood

An attempt was made to blast a channel through ice on the Bow river for water that raced over spillways at Lake Minnewanka dam and down into this Horse Shoe Island district, 65 miles west of Calgary.

More than 30 homes were awash in the fast-moving stream.

FIVE FACE CHARGES IN CHILD BRIDE CASE

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Four persons faced charges tonight growing out of the marriage of youthful Leona Elizabeth Rosalia to a 10-year-old factory worker, and a fifth from a police investigation of the affair.

They were:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rosalia, for whom trial was set for March 2 after they pleaded not guilty to conspiracy charges.

Stanley Backus, the young husband, who faces a charge of rape as a result of the marriage.

Arthur Rosalia, brother of the "bride," charged with criminal assault with his 14-year-old daughter, Rosalind, as complainant.

William Pickett, 67, Rosalind's grandfather, held on a criminal charge for alleged intimacies with his granddaughter.

POLISH STUDENTS RIOT, 20 JEWS ARE INJURED

WILNO, Poland, Feb. 9.—(AP)—For the third time in recent months Jewish and anti-Semitic students at the University of Wilno clashed today and 20 Jewish youths were injured.

The rioting came less than a week after the university had been reopened. It had been closed a second time because of attacks on Jewish students. The authorities had exacted a promise non-Jewish students would stop such violence. However, a clash came when an effort was made to bar Jews from a building on the campus.

OLDEST SON OF F. D. R. MAY SPEAK IN ATHENS

Victory Dinner Date Conflicts With Father's Trip; Change Is Suggested.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—If the democracy of Athens, Ga., will postpone its Victory dinner from March 4 to March 19, James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President and one of his father's secretaries, may accept an invitation extended to him today by Representative Paul Brown, of Ohio, to be the principal speaker.

Following a conference with "Young Jimmie" at the White House today, Mr. Brown announced that because of the plan of his father to leave for Georgia on March 7, it would be impossible for him to be in Athens on the fourth, but that if it was convenient for the sponsors of the dinner to postpone it, he might accept for a later date. He will represent the father before the end of the week, he said. Representative Brown knows his final decision on the streets of West Point two weeks ago.

The appointments were made necessary by the recent dismissal of L. V. Shouse, former chief, and John Hammett, patrolman, which was caused by a personal difficulty between the two on the streets of West Point two weeks ago.

DATE MAY BE CHANGED TO MARCH 19

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 9.—Probably the Athens dinner might be changed to accord with his wishes. He explained he probably could be in Athens on March 19, the day before his father leaves Warm Springs for Washington, but that he did not wish the sponsors to postpone the dinner on his account.

President Roosevelt will leave Washington on March 7 for Augusta, Ga., where he will spend the following day and then proceed across the state to Warm Springs.

"If young Roosevelt does speak in Athens, it will be the first time he has formally addressed a southern audience," Representative Brown declared, "and everybody in my district is extremely anxious to have him as our guest."

DEBATERS CHOSEN

Six Selected for University Teams in Athens.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 9.—Winter debate tryouts at the University of Georgia resulted in selection of six debaters from 17 candidates.

Those selected, John O. Eldon, head of the public speaking department, and named were Sol Singer, Unadilla; Hamilton Douglas Jr., Atlanta; Ed. Stephenson, Sebring, Fla.; Frank McKemie, Fort Gaines; Robert Troutman Jr., Atlanta; and Harold Daniel, Locust Grove, Ga.

Singer and Marion Page, of Columbus, will uphold the affirmative against Erskine College February 25 on the question: "Resolved that Congress be empowered to fix minimum wages and maximum hours for industry."

The negative of the same question will be taken by Frank McKemie and Harold Daniel against the University of Dayton March 10.

University of Florida debaters will face Georgia March 4 on the question: "Resolved, that in case of war wealth as well as manpower should be conscripted."

All three debates will be held in Athens.

Buell Warns of Entry Into War If U. S. Heeds Democracies' Pleas

Foreign Policy Association Head Addresses Athens Institute, Advocating Cash and Carry Plan To Keep America From Conflict Abroad.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Raymond Leslie Buell, of New York, president of the Foreign Policy Association, told a University of Georgia public affairs audience today "the United States would find it difficult to keep out of a European war if it last very long."

He said "the wisest neutrality policy is not mandatory embargoes, but the cash-and-carry system."

He believes this, he said, because "the adoption of equal legislation which would weaken France and England in their struggle against the three world dictatorships will increase pressure within America to come to the aid of the democracies; and this, paradoxically enough, hasten our entrance into the next war."

Under any circumstances there are three factors which would tend to draw this country into a general European war, Buell said:

1. Unwillingness to give up freedom of the seas and foreign trade—necessary to the American economy.

2. Hatred of Fascism "will give rise to a strong demand in favor of America's entrance into the war on the side of the democratic powers, should they reach the point of being overwhelmed in a war by Fascist opponents."

This division between dictatorships and democracies, he said, is "the real division in Europe today."

3. A large number of Americans "will probably come to believe that if the three Fascist dictatorships succeed in dominating Europe and the Orient these states will inevitably turn greedy eyes upon the western hemisphere—Latin America, the Caribbean and even Canada—and thus injure the vital interest of the United States, from this standpoint," he added, "the British empire and to a lesser extent France constitute the first line defense in North America."

The only "sure means of keeping out of war is to assist in preventing it from breaking out," he said.

He listed the three great dictatorships as Germany, Italy and Russia.

U. S. HIGH COURT HEARS CLASHING ARGUMENTS ON RAILWAY LABOR ACT

Virginia Carrier Claims Law 'Unconstitutional' and 'Unreasonable.'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(P)—The supreme court heard clashing arguments today as to the validity of the railway labor act—New Deal law guaranteeing collective bargaining to rail employees.

Counsel for the Virginia Railway Company called the law "unconstitutional" and "unreasonable." The government argued that it was well within the constitutional powers of congress to regulate interstate commerce.

At the conclusion of the argument, the justices took the case under advisement. A decision by March 1 is possible.

Petition Upheld.
The case came to the supreme court after the district court for eastern Virginia and the circuit court of appeals had upheld a petition of shop craft employees. This petition asked that the railway be compelled to negotiate with a union and to refrain from interfering with the employees' choice of representatives for collective bargaining.

The employees were organized as System Federation No. 40 of the railway employees department of the American Federation of Labor.

In answer to questions by Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Sutherland, General Stanley Reed said that the back shop employees repaired engines and cars to be put back in service. He contended their work was closely related to actual railway operation and thus was subject to the congressional power to regulate interstate commerce.

"There is nothing made that is traded or sold to others," Sutherland asked.

"Absolutely nothing," Reed replied. H. T. Hall, counsel for the railway, contended the act violated the due process clause of the constitution, attempted to abridge liberty of contract, and deprived the railway of the right to bargain for contract with those of its employees who do not desire representation by the federation."

MIDWESTERN FARMERS PLEASED AT SNOWFALL
ST. PAUL, Feb. 9.—(P)—Farmers of the northwest's drought districts looked cheerfully upon a heavy burden of snow today—hopeful the highway-blocking drifts would make up much of the deficit in needed soil moisture.

In North Dakota, where more than twice as much snow fell this winter than last year, officials were particularly encouraged. The Bismarck Weather Bureau reported precipitation to date this year totaled 1.08 inches compared with 42 inch in the same period last year.

South Dakota precipitation to date this year totaled 1.97 inches compared with normal of .76.

RUTH CHAMBERS Atlanta Constitution Home-Making Expert, says:

"I can honestly say that the New Rinsol gives heaps more suds than ever — and that they're much faster-acting and longer-lasting, too. Women everywhere tell me that the New Rinsol gives 25 to 50% more suds. I have discovered that even in hardest water, the New Rinsol whips up quickly into the thickest, liveliest suds imaginable. That's why I always recommend Rinsol for tub or washing machine. It washes clothes much whiter and brighter, often in as little as 10 minutes. I also urge women to use Rinsol for dishes and all cleaning."

Paramount Theater Is Filled With Enthusiastic Homemakers at Opening Session of Constitution Cooking School

Here is a portion of the record-breaking first-day crowd which attended the opening of "Foods on Parade" yesterday morning at the Paramount theater. The annual cooking school lectures and demonstrations for this year are expected to break all attendance records, with the first-day audience agreeing at the close of the lecture yesterday that Miss Chambers is even more charming in her talks and brings with her an even greater wealth of cooking information than ever before. The nationally known cooking expert is presented to Atlanta each year by The Constitution as a contribution to better living.

Doors at the Paramount theater will open at 8 o'clock this morning for the second class of the four-day session, with Kline's style parade at 8:30 o'clock and the cooking lecture and demonstrations at 9 o'clock.

THEATER WELL FILLED FOR COOKING SCHOOL

with the session having special appeal to those who are seeking a safe reducing diet.

"If a woman decides she wishes to lose a few pounds she can follow a very safe and sane reducing diet without making any change in the regular family menus," Miss Chambers asserts. "The ordinary well-balanced diet can easily be adapted to the needs of one who is overweight if she follows the simple method of selecting those foods which are high in protein and avoids an excess amount of energy foods which are stored in the body as fat."

Dieting, she discloses, may be done so that a woman can keep her figure and her health. She will give sample menus to her audience today for safe and effective dieting.

Style Parade Pleases. The style parade of coming spring and summer fashions proved an entertaining and instructive feature preceding the cooking classes yesterday morning and will be presented at 8:30 o'clock each morning during the remaining three days of "Foods of the Nation." Kline's department store has supplied eight charming and talented models to display the new costumes in the style parade. All the ensembles, suits and frocks shown are taken from the large and complete stock of Kline's store.

Alverson's Beauty Salon is arranging distinctive coiffures to correspond with the personality and facial contours of each of the models, showing how Alverson's artists can create individual coiffures for their clients. The expert and artistic hair dressing adds much to the beautiful style parade presented at each session of the school.

You cannot afford to miss these highly entertaining and informative sessions. They mean too much to you and your family in more enjoyable living, better foods and a saving of time and money.

Be sure to attend this morning.

TRADE PACT PROPOSAL IS ADOPTED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—

The house adopted today without a change an administration resolution to continue for three years the President's authority to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements. The measure was sent to the senate by a roll call vote. Just before the resolution was approved, the Democratic majority battered down, 260 to 127, a motion by Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, to send the measure back to the ways and means committee for insertion of a provision to forbid lowering any tariff below an amount necessary to equalize the difference between foreign and domestic production costs.

The body of Elihu Root, one of America's greatest "elder statesmen," was brought back to the hilly Hamilton College campus today for burial in simple, brief funeral services attended only by members of the family and close friends.

SURRENDER TO SOVIET OFFERED BY TROTSKY

Wire Trouble Prevents Exile's Address From Being Heard in Gotham.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(AP)—A dramatic offer by Leon Trotsky to surrender to Soviet executioners if an impartial commission of inquiry should find him guilty "in the slightest degree" of the crimes imputed to him by Moscow courts was read at a mass meeting here tonight after wire trouble had prevented the exiled Russian from reading his address over a telephone hookup from Mexico City.

After waiting patiently in the Hippodrome theater almost an hour for the scheduled telephone connection to be established with Mexico City, a crowd which had gathered to hear his voice heard his speech delivered instead by Max Shachtman, Trotsky's American representative and editor.

Address Is Read. Shachtman began reading the address, which Trotsky previously had airmailed to New York, after a feverish attempt by the sponsors of the meeting to reach the former Bolshevik leader.

Officials of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company said "line trouble" developed on the hookup somewhere south of the border before the time set for Trotsky's speech.

Urges Protest. Trotsky declared it the "duty of all true friends of the Soviet Union" to say firmly to the Soviet government that "it is necessary at all costs to dispel the distrust of the western world for Soviet justice."

He said he could present "an enormous amount of testimony and documents" that would "demolish at their very foundations the confessions of a whole series of defendants" at the recent Moscow trials.

"In the trials there did not figure fighters, nor conspirators, but puppets in the hands of the G. P. U. They play assigned roles."

PONTIFF MAKES PLANS FOR LENTEN SERVICES

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 9.—(AP)—

Pope Pius XI, hoping soon to regain use of his massive papal throne to participate in holy week services of the Lenten season which begins tomorrow.

Regardless of whether he will be able to walk, the pontiff told his aides he wanted the services to be conducted as usual and that he would take part as his illness permits.

The Pope rested today after a troubled night and the pain in his legs bothered him only occasionally.

ROOSEVELT IS INVITED TO ADDRESS BANKERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(AP)—

Tom K. Smith, of St. Louis, president of the American Bankers' Association, invited President Roosevelt today to address the organization's annual convention at Boston on October 10.

Smith said, on leaving the White House, that he had laid before the president a copy of the association's recent report asking removal of what he termed "competitive features" of the postal savings system. The association contends the 2 per cent interest of postal savings is too high.

Smith was accompanied by Robert M. Hanes, of Winston-Salem, N. C., chairman of the association's legislative committee.

2 BOYS KILLED AS AUTO RAMS FREIGHT TRUCK

WINCHESTER, Tenn., Feb. 9.—

Two youths were killed and a young woman was shaken up tonight when their automobile crashed head-on into a freight truck three miles west of here.

The youths were identified as Robert Jackson, 19, and Charles Jackson, 17, both of Tullahoma. Miss Sadie Mae Haynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Haynes, of Tullahoma, was taken to the hospital here where she was treated for shock and a severe shaking up.

RICHMOND, Ky., Feb. 9.—(AP)—

THEY PAID THE PRICE

By ALICE CAMPBELL

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Diana Lake, just returned to London, hears from Adrian Somerville, struggling young scientist, that he has inherited the fortune of his stepmother, Rose Walsh, ex-star of the theater, who was Diana's godmother. Until shortly before her death, Adrian and she had been estranged. Diana's parents are both of the theater. Diana's godfather, Nicholas Blundell, wealthy harbor solicitor, lived in the flat below Adrian's stepmother and managed her affairs. Diana has always disliked him. Now that the lack of money no longer keeps them apart, Adrian and Diana plan to be married. Diana's mother is doubtful that Rose died a natural death, and Diana feels she is not pleased about her engagement. Diana reads in the evening paper that her aunt's body is to be exhumed for an autopsy. She meets Adrian, Elsie Dilworth, Blundell's neurotic secretary, who was in love with Adrian—he'd repudiated her advances. Diana meets her father returning home, in the hallway of the apartment they find her mother—murdered. Blundell is thought to be the motive. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

quired Bream genially.

"O, I made it 'No straight off, for he tried to wheedle me into showing it to him. He flourished a brand-new pocketbook just full of money. Stuffed full of pound notes, it was, and he was dressed up to the nines, as you may say; but I suppose I'm prejudiced against these real dark skinned natives. I just wouldn't like one in the house."

"Dark skinned? Dressed to the nines? Where was the connection between Elsie Dilworth and the Indian student?"

"There's something in that room he wants to get at—maybe to destroy. Or he thinks there's something in it."

"Unfortunately," said the bursar of the School of Economics, "our enrollment of Indians is enormous. I'm afraid I don't recognize the description, but I'll do my best. You've come rather late, and our lectures are over for the day. Just possibly, though, there may be an Indian or two left in the building."

Bream waited in the lobby and was presently rewarded by the return of the bursar in company with a slender young Indian of well-bred appearance. It was not at all what Bream wanted, for this student, introduced as Mr. Mirza Ahmed, would in all probability hand on a warning to his fellow countryman. However, the damage was done, and the bursar's next words removed his fears.

"Mr. Ahmed did not know the young man Bream had described, but had his own reasons for wishing to corner him."

He says Mr. Haji owes him ten pounds and has been dodging payment for some time. I'll leave the two of you to talk matters over."

When they were alone Ahmed said with amusement in his dark eyes: "So you're after him too, are you? I wish you luck, but I'm much more of a mystery, but I'm told he's spending it like water."

"So his name is Haji, is it?"

"Abdumajid Haji—and perhaps you don't need me to tell you he's as slippery as an eel. He borrowed left and right from every one who was fool enough to lend, and now he's flush he's stopping turning up for lectures. It's possible his father's forked up again, but I doubt it, after the mess he's made of it."

"I hadn't heard about that. What kind of a mess?"

"O, a nasty affair—or might have been. A girl he was in love with, a girl he was running with died in his room. It looked for a bit as though Haji might be arrested."

"But he wasn't, I take it?"

"No, it was a natural death. It caused scandal, though, and I expect for his people it was the last straw. Haji's father's a highly respectable government official in Bombay. No, I scarcely see Haji now. I can't tell you his present address, though I could probably get it for you from some of his friends. I suppose you'd like me to try?"

"I would, very much," answered Bream, "provided you can do it without letting him guess I'm after him."

"I'll keep his facts and dates out of it," Ahmed promised, and Bream hoping his ally could be trusted to keep his word, handed him his telephone number.

For this evening Bream had formed a project and on its success much of his future movements would depend. Till a late hour, therefore, he tabulated his facts and dates and made his way to Floyd's square, now silent as the tomb, ill-lighted, eerily damp. There was a passage leading southward from the corner near Mrs. Eales' house. He stationed himself just inside and prepared for a tedious and perhaps fruitless vigil.

As he was about to give up, a faint footstep fell on his ear. With extreme caution he peered forth into the alley. By the powers he was right! There, by the locked gate of Seventeen, Abdumajid Haji was mounting a dust bin and grasping the top of the wall for a spring!

Amateur once more shot through the agent's mind. Hadn't the fool walked out to put on dark clothing? His new fawn overcoat had a pale splash in the night. One two—clad leg was just riding aloft when Bream's scorn transferred to himself. Flower pots!

Startled by the clatter in the rear the Indian leapt to earth with terror written on his swarthy face. Bream pinned him by the collar and found a small, pearl handled revolver thrust into the pit of his stomach. In the utter confusion which followed the detective's hand was on the trigger when he had got hold of an eel. His own revolver, hurled from his hand, fell ten feet away, his prey wriggled free and melted into the darkness. Bream collected his weapon, shouted, and made a frantic dash.

Far along the turnings which descended toward King's Cross the steps hot-footed, he pursued but uncaptured. It was a deeply mortified private agent.

Hereafter I'm just going to say, "Oh, tell me what's in them. You explain it all so entertainingly." I don't know why I never thought of that before.

MANNERS OF THE MOMENT

He fills your lap with things to read, and then doesn't give you time to read them.

Do you have friends who pile your lap full of things that they haul out of their brief cases or their desks, which "you simply must read?" I don't know if maybe my friends are peculiar. Sometimes I wonder, I must say. But there are several of them who always seem to be carrying around fascinating documents.

It wouldn't be so bad if they'd just give me time to read the stuff. Maybe it is fascinating. But I've never been able to find out. Before I can read the first sentence on one page, another page is laid on top of it, and all the while there is a constant barrage of verbal explanations beating upon my eardrums.

The trouble is, I can't seem to read a whole page at a glance. Maybe I should have learned how in that Male Avenue grammar school I went to once, but it wasn't that kind of a school.

Hereafter I'm just going to say, "Oh, tell me what's in them. You explain it all so entertainingly." I don't know why I never thought of that before.

III—Gunpowder and Firearms.

Gunpowder, or something like it, was known more than 2,000 years ago. Ancient records tell of explosives used in both China and India. One record of a city in India says:

"I never turn the radio on when I'm havin' a dinner party. The only times I ever tried it, the man started tellin' 'bout folks needed his pills." (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

French riflemen in World War.

"The men in it do not come out into the field to fight. They overthrow their enemies with thunderbolts shot from their walls."

At a later time an explosive called "Greek fire" came into use in Asia Minor and other lands around the eastern end of the Mediterranean sea. The exact nature of Greek fire is not known, but it is believed to have contained sulphur, naphtha and quicklime. Sometimes the records call it "wet fire" or "sea fire." We are told that at one time it was used to destroy a Saracen fleet.

Close to seven centuries ago, an English friar named Roger Bacon wrote a book in which he told how to make an explosive which contained saltpeter, the most important part of gunpowder. Some persons have called Bacon the "inventor" of gunpowder, but most likely he copied the facts about making it from an old manuscript.

Wide-mouthed cannon were made in Italy in the year 1326, and 20 years later gunpowder was employed by the English in the Battle of Crecy, which was fought in northern France. The crusades were over, and there was little real damage, but the loud noise filled the French with fear.

Besides the large cannon, early soldiers sometimes used "hand cannons." These were long iron barrels, loaded with powder and iron balls or "bulletts."

Some hand-cannon were fired from the hip, but many were fitted with wooden "stocks" which could be rested against the shoulder. In this way the old "arquebus" or "muskett" came into being.

For a long time the custom was to keep a wick burning near the rear end of the barrel. This supplied flame to place near the "touch-hole" and make the powder explode.

Later the flint-lock gun was invented, and it was in common use until about the year 1850. When the trigger was pulled, flint and steel struck together. The sparks set off the charge of powder. At least that was supposed to happen. Often the flint-locks missed fire.

During the past century, rifles of many kinds and sizes have been made. The reason for the name "rifle" is the fact that the inside of the barrel is grooved or "rifled." The spiral grooves makes the bullet turn around, and this gives greater speed. Instead of the old-time round ball, a bullet is used which is longer than it is wide.

DISPUTE OVER LETTER HALTS WOMAN'S TRIAL

Admissibility of Note Allegedly Written by Mrs. Henson To Be Decided.

Controversy over the admission of a letter introduced by the state, in which Mrs. Eva Henson, on trial in Fulton superior court for the murder of her husband, Olin, is alleged to have threatened to kill him and to have declared him not her husband caused a halt in the trial until 9 o'clock this morning.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey granted defense counsel until then to produce authority showing why the letter should not be admitted as evidence.

Previously, in an opening statement to the jury, defense counsel had announced it would show the killing grew out of the "milk war" of last summer. Both Mrs. Henson and her husband were convicted for their participation in the "war."

Wallie Frances Gignilliat, 13-year-old schoolgirl, an eye-witness to the fatal stabbing, told the jury she saw Mrs. Henson follow her husband up Woodward avenue from Miss Pearl Gignilliat's house.

"He was then backing away from her, but finally she caught him and stabbed him over the heart. He then slapped her and fell. Mrs. Henson then stabbed him four more times and shouted, 'You got what was coming to you' and called him some bad names," the girl said.

Ida Speck, with Henson when confronted by his wife on the night of the stabbing, told the jury she had known Henson only a few days. She said Henson, Leonard Jones and she had eaten supper together and had then gone to Pearl Gignilliat's to "get a drink." It was there Mrs. Henson, accompanied by Mrs. Beatrice Mayfield, found them. She said she left when the family argument began.

Mrs. W. S. Henson, mother of the dead man, produced the letter which caused the controversy. She told the court she found it among her son's possessions after he was killed.

F. D. R. PEACE POWERS ARE ASSAILED BY FISH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, ranking Republican member of the house foreign affairs committee, tonight urged the nation to bombard congress with protests against legislation giving President Roosevelt discretionary power over American neutrality.

He proposed in a radio speech that instead of granting additional authority to the White House that congress should retrieve much of the power it delegated to the President during the recent emergency.

Asserting that he was in favor of mandatory neutrality legislation, Fish urged that congress make permanent the embargo on arms, munitions and implements of war to belligerent nations and prohibitions on loans of money or credits to warring countries.

Gang Term Asked For 'Bug' Players

A bill which would make it a misdemeanor for any person to purchase a lottery ticket went into the house of representatives hopper yesterday.

Proposed by Representative Carmichael, of Cobb county, the measure would make the buyer equally as guilty as the seller, and subject him on conviction to a sentence of 12 months on the chain gang, six months in jail and a $1,000 fine, any one or all three.

Possession of a lottery ticket, under terms of the bill, would be prima facie evidence of the guilt of a buyer.

2,000 SCHOOL WORKERS WIN PAY RESTORATION

$62,100 Will Be Returned to Employees Over 11-Month Period.

Two thousand employees of the school department were voted a 2 per cent restoration of salary yesterday by the Atlanta Board of Education.

The restoration will amount to $62,100 for the remaining 11 months of the year.

Pointing out that $38,000 of the sum comes from increased appropriations from the state department of education, Ed S. Cook, school board president, declared the remainder will be obtained through economies. He said the $12,000 restoration distributed last month to the school employees resulted from economy also.

Twenty-five teachers and employees on leaves of absence or who had retired or resigned just before the $12,000 was distributed, yesterday moved to obtain a pro rata share of the sum. In a petition they asked they be paid a part since they had worked a part of the previous year under the same salary cuts. The request was referred to a committee. Restoration to these employees would cost $2,000 of 1937 revenue.

Mrs. Z. V. Peterson made a motion that no information concerning the activities of the school department be given out except through the president of the board. This was referred to the rules committee.

HOUSE APPROVES STERILIZATION BILL

Law Would Be Applicable Only To Inmates of State Institutions.

The house of representatives yesterday approved a sterilization law applicable only to inmates of state institutions.

Operation of the law, yet to be voted upon by the senate, would be in the hands of a three-member board of eugenics consisting of the chairman of the state board of control, the superintendent of the state hospital at Milledgeville and the director of the state department of health.

The bill would require the institution head in the event of a planned operation, to notify the guardian or next of kin of the inmate of the recommendation to afford that person a hearing before the eugenics board. The board would have to act within 30 days, and if it recommended sterilization, the inmate or his guardian or kinsmen would have the right to appeal to a superior court for a jury trial and review of the case.

In cases where sterilization was ordered, the inmate or his guardians would have the right to "select a competent physician of his own choice, for consultation or operation at his own expense."

The operation "shall be a vasectomy for males and a salpingectomy for females, or some similar operation that would not "unsex" the subject."

Proponents of the bill said its principal purpose was to prevent procreation of children by the insane or dis-eased where heredity is likely to transmit the ailment to the children.

DYING WINDS AND SUN HELP RELIEVE ANXIETY OF LEVEE WORKMEN

Down-River Mississippi Groups Gird To Meet Brunt of Floods.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 9.—(AP)—Dying winds, bright weather and falling water relieved the anxiety of levee workers and engineers above Memphis tonight while down-river sections prepared to meet the brunt of the Mississippi flood a few days hence.

The peak of the torrent apparently was passing this city. For ten hours, the level of the river remained nearly constant after climbing to record heights.

But army engineers warned: "The crest of the flood is very flat and the stage of the river will remain near crest proportions for several days."

24-Hour Battle.
A 24-hour battle with winds that sometimes reached gale proportions and drove coming white-caps against the already taxed levees apparently had been won.

"Weather conditions over the Memphis district are more favorable today," Lieutenant Colonel Eugene R. Hild, chief of engineers in this district, reported. "The wind has died down and with a drop in wind velocity there has come a calmer river surface and a lessening of wave wash."

"Prompt preventive measures have averted any adverse effect to the levees from the wave action of the past few days. Seepage and boils continue as may be expected with water at high stages against the levees for long periods," however, prompt action has been taken in each instance, and all affected points are under control."

No Critical Points.

"There are no critical points in the levees in this district at this time," Lieutenant Colonel Hild said. "At Vicksburg, Miss., prepared to receive the crest of the flood, Mississippi backwater pushing up the mouth of the Yazoo river, inundated a large lowland area there and sent refugees into Vicksburg."

At Cairo, where the Mississippi and Ohio meet, women and children began to reappear, despite the injunction of Mayor August Bode forbidding their Stubborn stains, such as fruit, flower, grass, beverage, blood, and many ink, dye and medicine stains—even scorch and mildew—are removed with a slightly stronger solution.

Clorox also disinfects, deodorizes and removes most stains from refrigerators, drainboards, sinks, bathtubs, toilet bowls, tile, linoleum, sickroom utensils, garbage cans.

Boy Is Rushed Here With Whistle in Lung

With a small metallic whistle lodged in his right lung, Kenneth Smith, ten-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith of St. Simons Island, was admitted to an Atlanta infirmary late yesterday afternoon.

He will be operated upon within a day or two, in efforts to remove the whistle. The boy swallowed the whistle, which he removed from the mouthpiece of a horn, while attending a party recently.

The boy was first taken to Brunswick, Ga., where X-rays revealed the whistle, and was then taken to a Jacksonville hospital, where physicians' efforts to remove the object failed.

return until all flood danger is past, and the river has dropped to 55 feet. It stood above 57 feet today.

Deputy sheriffs patrolled the highways leading into the city to prevent a return of the residents, until the safety point has been reached. About 1,500 persons had ignored the order to evacuate and remained in the city throughout last week's crisis.

COUNTY MULTIPLICITY IS INSTITUTE SUBJECT

ership of George Spicer, University of Virginia.

In addition to sentiment blocking needed change in the county governments of Georgia, Dr. Reed pointed out several other factors that must be taken into consideration.

Would Reduce Jobs.

"Combination of several counties would naturally abolish several jobs, and you have the opposition of the officers," Dr. Reed said. "Citizens living in the county seat that is to be abandoned naturally hate to see the business leaving, and then politicians never like to see the rules of the game changed anyway."

"Urging the installation of a state police force, Dr. Reed also advocated a closer union between the suburban and metropolitan areas of Atlanta, which are now so utterly uncoordinated in local government."

"If Atlanta requires a metropolitan government, she ought to get one irrespective of the vested interests of politicians or the apathy of a public which flatters itself its indifference is real conservatism."

Seasongood Speaks.

The famous merit and tax system of Cincinnati was explained last night by Murray Seasongood, former reform mayor of Cincinnati, as he used the various reforms instituted in his city as examples of what any city could do if the citizens "desire the best form of government."

Mr. Seasongood gave the formal address last night at the Emory institute of citizenship. He was introduced by Mayor Hartsfield.

Explaining the merit system, the former mayor who is credited with having "cleaned up Cincinnati," pointed out that applicants do not have to depend on local politicians for jobs, but that their appointment, retention and promotion depends entirely on their ability.

"The high state of efficiency shown by our firm and during the recent flood is evidence of the success of our program," Mr. Seasongood said.

State constitutional provision for "home rule" in each city makes reforms possible, according to Mr. Seasongood.

Whistle in Lung, Boy Here for Operation

With a small, metallic whistle lodged in his right lung, Kenneth Smith, 10-year-old St. Simons Island boy, shown with his mother, Mrs. J. D. Smith, was admitted yesterday to an Atlanta infirmary, pending an operation for removal of the object. The whistle, taken from a toy horn, was swallowed a few days ago at a party.

songood, for it enabled the city to adopt the city manager plan of government, institute the merit system, and plan a tax rate that would be in harmony with the suburban areas and adjoining counties.

"Despite the low tax rate of any city exceeding 300,000 in the United States," he continued, "we have made reductions in the costs of paving, built an airport, and reduced our bonded indebtedness $16,000,000."

Giving an idea of the situation as it existed before the reforms, Mr. Seasongood related the history of the reform movement and compared the present political integrity with that of the past.

"It is the spirit of the people that counts," he said. "It may take a long time to accomplish reforms, but it may be done if the people keep at work constantly."

At the round-table on the supreme court following the Reed address, both sides of the judicial reform plan of President Roosevelt were presented.

Age Not Vital Factor.
"Age is not what makes a difference in a judge's decisions," declared Judge Watkins, "for it is the fundamental philosophy which he holds. If you want to know what decision a judge will make, you should study his philosophy and psychology and the biography of a judge rather than precedents."

Dr. Edward S. Corwin, Princeton professor of jurisprudence and principal speaker on the Monday program, reiterated his advocacy of the proposed plan, and in addition suggested three constitutional amendments in line with reforms now being proposed:

"Congress should be given the right to overrule the veto power of the supreme court by a two-thirds vote; a new electoral system should be devised; and a new method of amending the constitution should be instituted."

The problem of the counties was discussed again at an afternoon round-table presided over by Dr. Frank W. Prescott, University of Chattanooga, with Dr. Spicer as principal speaker.

Executive Agent Plan.
Urging the consolidation of various small counties, Dr. Spicer declared the best possible governmental system was similar to that carried out in Virginia, where an executive agent is appointed by a board of commissioners elected by the voters. This executive is to have supervision of the work carried on by the county, and in co-ordinating the various activities of the county into a single operating unit, it is to be responsible only to the commissioners.

"In this way," Dr. Spicer said, "the people are afforded a simple, direct and continuous means of control over their local government, and this is the essence of responsible government."

Taking the lead in the farm tenancy problem, R. W. Hudgens, regional director of the Resettlement Administration, declared tenancy itself was not the basic problem, for the evils were not corrected by ownership, at public expense if necessary.

Supervision and Advice.
"Supervision and expert advice is the key to improvement," he said, "and a movement into ownership must come from plans designed to relieve farmers from hardships that prevent ownership. This must be guaranteed, at public expense if necessary."

Praise was given papers in the making curtains, sewing, cooking and other accomplishments which add to the comforts of home.

It is important, too, to know that last year 100 girls devoted enough time to study of a subject that they were able to pass examinations in that subject.

Other Objectives.
Hundreds of others were working in arts, sketching, handicrafts and other subjects.

The camp, an annual summer event, is one of the major programs. The Girl Scout Council receives a small amount of Community Chest aid to assist with work among underprivileged children.

These are organized into troops, are taken to camps, and their reaction has been equally important. The Girl Scouts have done physically and spiritually, in some measure at least, what the government has done in removing only the physical and providing habitable housing.

The Girl Scout work extends to children below 10 years of age, which is the earliest age for becoming scouts. These younger children are called "Brownies."

Some Achievements.
They do much work. Last year: Twenty-six troops made toys, scrapbooks, baby clothes, socks, dressed dolls and collected gifts for children's homes, nurseries and hospitals at Christmas.

Troops planned games and entertainment for children in nurseries as part of the child nurse training work. Community service saw 150 girls obtain merit badges.

The publicity committee last year won the national award and yesterday thanked the Atlanta newspapers for their part in giving voice to the girls of Atlanta.

Mardine Davis and Mary Burdell, of troops 20 and 38, last year received Eagle badges, the highest award in scouting.

These were but a few of the accomplishments as related by the committee reporting yesterday.

Born in Georgia.
Girl Scouts, an international organization, is a Georgia institution in that 25 years ago in Savannah, Mrs. Juliette Low organized the first Girl Scout troop.

It, along with the Boy Scouts, represents the ultimate in youth movements. They are not to be confused with the youth movements of countries where a dictator serves. Youth movements there have as the ultimate aim a military proficiency.

The Girl Scouts and the Boy Scouts seek only to build better citizens and a happier girlhood and boyhood for the children of America.

Ex-Governor John M. Slaton presided yesterday as president of the Civilian Club. He later turned the meeting over to Mrs. Wright Bryan, Atlanta commissioner.

Rome Delegation.
Present from Rome was Mrs. Ross Corbin, an international commissioner for life, with 10 members of the newly organized council in Rome.

LeRoy Wynne, one of the camp chairmen, announced the Civilian plan for the $27,000 gift to the camp. Plans for raising the money are to be announced later.

Committee heads reporting were Mrs. Charles Minor, Mrs. Charles Hurt, Mrs. Erroll Hay and Mrs. Morris Brandon, publicity; Mrs. Frank Allcorn, finance; Mrs. J. F. Heard, training and personnel; Mrs. B. F. Hedger, badges and awards; Mrs. Trenton Tunnell, Camp Civitana.

AURIOL IS CHALLENGED TO MEET FRENCH DEBT

Finance Minister Pledges Loyalty To Pact With Britain and U. S.

PARIS, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Vincent Auriol, finance minister, was challenged in the senate today to show how the government would meet a possible deficit of 40,000,000,000 francs (about $1,840,000,000) for 1937 but declined to make a direct reply.

Also questioned as to the possibility of further devaluation of the franc, the finance minister of Premier Leon Blum's Socialist government made a general assertion of loyalty to the tripartite currency agreement of France, the United States and Great Britain.

Queried Auriol.
Abel Gardey, chairman of the senate finance committee, questioned Auriol during a debate in which Gardey insisted on halt to government spending.

Gardey asserted the Blum cabinet "in a little more than a month this year already has equalled last year's entire deficit of 7,000,000,000 francs ($332,000,000)." He went on to estimate the deficit for the year at 40,000,000,000 francs—twice the figure estimated by the budget for 1937.

"There is no reason to get excited about the deficits," Auriol asserted, but admitted that "loans" offered the only solution.

Questioned on Franc.
Gardey questioned the finance minister as to the possibility the government would let the franc slip to the lowest gold point fixed by the recent law revaluing the franc at between 49 and 45 milligrams of gold. (The franc is now at about the 46-milligram mark.)

Auriol replied in general terms: "We have signed a monetary accord with two great democracies (the United States and Great Britain). We do not wish to practice a unilateral monetary policy at a time when our interests push us toward rapprochement with other democracies."

The chamber of deputies voted to change the monetary law specifying the method of paying of foreign loans negotiated before the franc devaluation of last autumn.

The change specified that foreign loans will be paid in the new devalued franc, but they carry specific clauses calling for payment in gold francs or foreign currencies.

HIGHWAY CAPTURED BY REBEL TROOPS
REBEL HEADQUARTERS, AVILA, Feb. 9.—(UP)—Rebel headquarters today announced capture of the Madrid-Valencia highway, seriously crippling Madrid's communications with the outside world.

The important victory followed a sudden advance on the Coreteras-Espalón hill section, which enabled the Rebels to dominate the highway.

Insurgents now control the seven main arteries connecting the Madrid Loyalists with supplies of food and munitions. They are not entirely cut off, however. They still have access to the city by a side road leading from Madrid to Guadalajara, which lies in Loyalist territory.

From the Guadalajara road, the Loyalists can use secondary roads to the coast.

RUSSIAN IS NAMED FOR MOVIE HONORS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 9.—(AP) Michael Auer, a cocky Russian with one of the most tragic backgrounds of all Hollywood actors, is up for honors tonight—as a comedian.

For his antics as the gloomy, gormandizing, monkey-imitating pianist in the film, "My Man Godfrey," Auer has been nominated to receive the academy statuette for the year's best supporting role performance.

MY COLD HAS GONE!

"The other morning I woke up with a cold. My nose was running—my eyes were running—and everything seemed to be running but my bowels. Right there I made a bad mistake. I took a cold medicine which made me feel worse. She gave me Teething Tablets and now Teething is the nicest, kindest laxative for little fellows like me. It cleaned my bowels and helped to relieve my acid condition. I feel better now and I want to thank my drug store for always keeping a big supply of Teething on hand. Teething costs only 25c for twelve size-tasting powders." TEETHINA.

This brings this birthdate under the influence of the Zodiacal sign Cancer, the sign of love, home, conservatism, tenacity, dignity. The Moon governs the particular part of the sign under which this birthdate comes. This bespeaks one fair-minded, reliable and sincere.

The Sun-Jupiter position gives idealism and refinement of spirit. The Mars position gives unusual executive talent.

The Sun position shows him to be intuitive and an excellent judge of human nature.

The Sun-Mars position gives general good health, plenty of vitality, intense enthusiasm and ability to finish undertakings. It endows with courage, activity, enterprise. There is great capacity for work and high ideals.

The fact that the planet Jupiter throws a trine aspect to the Sun becomes the abiding promise of a successful life.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence in regard to this column should be sent to Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: A group of college girls gathered in our sorority house before an open fire had a "What is Love?" Wash held out for physical attraction. Mouse for respect, Tracy for personal magnetism. Tracy for congeniality, Puzie and Mary B. for a magical something that just happens to you and Smartie thinks it is all imagination and conquest, doubts if there is such a thing and ends by "All things come to him who orders hands." If it isn't asking too much of you, could you think give the best definition of love?

THE GOONS.
Answer: All seven answers put together might make a reasonably good description of love but certainly not any one of them is comprehensive. Number 8, Smartie, is out because Smartie's idea is cynical and cynicism and love have no truck with each other. So, I agree with you that cynicism is a thought we dare not face. This doesn't mean that these thoughts won't face us before the tale is told. Sooner or later Smartie will discover herself madly in love with some lad and when that happens if her dish of hash contains a thousand ingredients, she will be interested in only one of them.

Perhaps Wash is right in saying physical attraction is more often than otherwise, the first link in the chain of love that draws us to one another. It is probably the identical with the "magical something that just happens to you" in which Puzie and Mary B. believe and it is very close kin to the "personal magnetism" that Tracy refers to. But here's the trouble with the physical attraction. It won't last long unless it is enforced with "Tracy's congeniality" and "Mouse's respect." These are the two things that determine the life span of physical attraction and don't forget it, girls, when you are making the big decision.

The second link in the chain is a sort of glorified friendship, built up like the coral reef of tiny deposits, day in, day out. It is in friendship that congeniality and mutual respect get their innings. There is the talk of all the big and little happenings of the day, the exchange of confidences, the weaving into a single pattern of two interests. There's the blessed assurance that each comes first with the other, the pleasure of growing dependence upon the other, the delight of planning the future in which they shall be always together, the tender vows of loyalty and devotion. And the 1242-B JUMPER OUTFIT OF SPORTY CUT FOR SCHOOL-AGE MISS.

The jumper frock is having a real comeback, and in this model even invades the younger generation of 8 to 14. It will be seen all summer as well, with printed cotton jumpers and light houses of dimity or batiste, so it's not at all too early to start on this outfit, which will be useful for school days now and vacation days later. The jumper skirt allows for plenty of freedom, with four box pleats. The buttonings front and back give a sporty touch. A simple little blouse, with short round collar, accompanies it. Things That Make Women More Beautiful

This Article Is for Women With a Hollow or Sway-Back

By MIGNON.
(The Mignon who writes this column does not sell, endorse or manufacture any cosmetics.)

Much attention is given to the exercise of the normally fit and the overweight individual. But the matter of being physically fit is of very great importance. I find the person with a hollow back asking what she can do to improve her figure.

Nature has provided us with a natural spinal curve in the lower back. When this natural curve becomes increased and exaggerated the condition known as a hollow back is created. By allowing this condition to continue the individual becomes aware of a tired, aching feeling in the lower back. This is found especially true after a person has worked all day or has been on the feet for a considerable length of time.

If the back is hollowed some other part of the body must compensate for it. As a result we find the hips are tilted from their normal angle. The abdomen protrudes forward and is quite prominent even on a slender person. These positions throw the pelvic organs of the body out of their proper positions so that they do not function to the best advantage. It is then that the person notices the fatigue and ache in the lower back.

Improving the general posture and pulling the abdominal muscles in are of great importance. Here is an exercise that will benefit posture and do wonders for the back.

Stand against the wall, with the back of the head, shoulders and the hips touching the wall. The feet are together and the heels are out six inches from the wall. For a normal back there is approximately a space of four inches between the wall and greatest part of the lower back curve. Feel and see how much space there is between your back curve and the wall. Now pull in with the abdominal muscles until the back is flat against the wall and hold while you count five, then relax. Keep the head erect and do not move the feet.

Repeat the exercise five times and then gradually increase this number. At night use a cream to soften the skin, and if possible have someone massage the back with a cream. I will tell you about it. It isn't expensive and you will like it.

'YOUR FIGURE, MADAME!'

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

ARE YOU A POTENTIAL DIABETIC?
In England there is an unique organization of diabetics with a membership of more than 5,000, which includes such distinguished members as H. G. Wells and Hugh Walpole.

There is no such organization in America, but there might well be, for there are approximately 500,000 potential diabetics in this country. The amazing interest in the English organization reflects the prevalence of the disease and should act as a warning to all potential diabetics.

An excess of food contributes to the development of the disease, and Dr. E. P. Joslin, authority on the subject, warns that if there is a diabetic heredity in one's family excess weight must be avoided.

In 1,000 cases of diabetics, 107 were thin and 893 were overweight. Women were found to have a higher diabetic tendency than men, and to develop the disease after 40, when they begin to take on weight.

That obesity is the precursor of diabetes was indicated in the study of 673 cases by Dr. S. Franklin Adams, of the Mayo clinic, who found that 91 per cent were overweight and that 82.9 per cent were more than 10 per cent overweight at the onset of diabetes.

Even with the development of the disease in the young, overweight appears to be a factor. Investigation shows that more than 30 per cent of diabetics under 20 were more than 10 per cent overweight before diabetes developed.

There may be an heredity of diabetes in your family of which you are unaware, and if you are excessively overweight it would pay you to have a blood sugar test made to see whether drates alone. He points out that the Japanese as a race consume large quantities of carbohydrate, but are less prone to diabetes than other races.

If there is any diabetes in your family, keeping your weight at normal may not divert it from you, but remember that the disease is more common among the thin over 30, and almost never to be found in an individual past middle age who has always been thin.

Aside from controlling weight through dietary restrictions, get a normal amount of exercise, for a large part of the carbohydrate is burned in muscular activity. If you have diabetes, however, your doctor must advise whether or not you should exercise, for it is harmful in severe cases.

With either the tendency to diabetes or diabetes itself, weight must be controlled, for overnutrition is as harmful in the treatment as it is conducive to the development of the disease.

BELFRY YIELDS BABY OWLS.
CLEARWATER, Fla., Feb. 9.—(AP) Kenneth McMaster, of Dunedin, found three baby owls in a church belfry. He gave the birds to R. Lavallen, seven miles away. A month later, the mother bird found her offspring, and now every night she visits the wire cage in which the rapidly growing trio is kept and drops rats and other food to them.

Contract Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

TRIPLE RAISES.

The raise of a minor suit bid to four should not be attempted when there is any hope of making a game at no-trump, for the three no-trump level is passed by the pre-emptive raise. Hands offering a major suit response to the opening minor suit bid also are as bad as triple raises.

The best type of hand for a triple raise in a minor suit is:

(a) A hopeless freak, which forfeits danger of a game bid by opponents; or

(b) A hand which will permit partner to make game in the minor if he is strong enough to have a chance for game in no-trump.

Raise one club or one diamond to four with:

1. ♠ None ♥ J 6 ♦ Q 8 7 5 4 ♣ K 7 6 3 2.

The triple raise, while a weak shut-out bid, must not be considered a "stop" bid. Its strength is limited, but often the opener, with a powerful hand, will be able to make a slam try.

A raise of more than three tricks (from one to five or six) should not be made, even in a minor where five-odd are needed for game. More scientific methods of reaching so high a contract, with forcing bids, and of leaving the way open for a slam, are at the player's disposal.

TODAY'S HAND.

A friend of mine submits the following hand as one of the most harrowing experiences he had had at the bridge table in a long time. It all came about through an expert's stubborn disregard of a bidding convention.

French Representative Talks on Paris Mode

Politely, but somewhat emphatically denying the current rumor that French couturiers are now adopting some of their styles from America, Mlle. Madeleine de Charpin, chic representative of the forthcoming Paris Exposition, discussed fashion trends in modern fashions yesterday following a luncheon given in her honor. Mlle. de Charpin arrived in the city Monday to invite Atlantans in general to general to visit the exposition which opens May 1 in the French capital.

She was accompanied by a traveling companion, Mrs. Germaine Johnson, of Washington, D. C., who interpreted her remarks on French styles, for Mlle. de Charpin speaks no English. "The French could not appropriate American fashions unaltered for the reason that they are too extreme," she commented. Mademoiselle de Charpin drew her information from the styles displayed in American movies shown abroad, for the average American fashion is considered more conservative than the French. At least from the standpoint of Americans.

Mlle. de Charpin, however, paid marked tribute to the individuality which the well-dressed American woman manages to express in her costumes. "That is the note that lends charm to her appearance," she continued. And she confessed that she spent hours admiring the gowns, hats and shoes displayed in the fashionable New York shops, and liked them so much that she chose several costumes to augment the French creations in her own wardrobe. "New York was like the unfolding of a fairy story," interpreted Mrs. Johnson after one of Mademoiselle's rapturous bursts of French enthusiasm.

Mlle. de Charpin obligingly and expertly answered numerous questions on the French mode, through her interpreter, of course. When asked if she thought American men better dressed and better groomed than her countrymen, reverting to type she barked her brown eyes coquettishly and countered humorously, "Est-ce un homme Français présent?" Which was her sly way of admitting that America leads, at least in masculine fashions.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, Monday—Back in Washington at 7:30 this morning to be met by a fine rain and a temperature which is really more like April than February. The weather makes little difference, however, for today I shall go out only in a car. At 11 I went to the last of Mrs. Townsend's musical mornings. Cassado played the cello and Madame Lotte Lehman sang, and it was a rare treat.

From there, to the lunch given by the Society of Sponsors of the United States Navy, at which they presented me with the emblem of the society. The assistant secretary of the navy, Mr. Charles Edison, and I had a nice talk. He was as nervous about bringing the greetings of the secretary of the navy and the Navy Department, as I was about making a speech, so both of us tried to forget what was about to happen and I for one, succeeded.

A letter came from North Little Rock, Ark., the other day, painting the picture of a woman's life so well that I am going to quote part of it to you today.

"I was a businesswoman until I had to choose between my work and my husband. . . . He is in the infirmary ward where he has sat or lain for years. . . . I have given up home, old friends, and have come here on a one-way ticket. I am happy to say that I am able to give him his flowers while he is living, and I can keep him knowing 'he is still God's gift to an otherwise very lonesome woman.' . . .

"I am fortunate in that we had no children in this hospital. We have over 900 patients, and by next summer there will be 600 more beds. . . . My work is all rehabilitation, and I have always been able to take care of my own self-rehabilitation. . . . I just have to let each day take care of itself and stay put.

"I always have a good book near, and my knitting nearer. I knit all my own clothes, and am the envy of my wealthier and lovely friends. On my daily visits to see my baby, I keep my eyes on my knitting or I read to him. . . .

"I hope I have not bored you with my explanation of why I have to live so restricted a life. My income permits me to have my own home. So many others of the patients' wives have to live in other people's homes and look on a visit to my quiet, well regulated secluded home as a sanctuary. I call it 'Our No Man's Land.' . . .

"My radio means so much to me. Your too brief resume of 'Idiot's Delight' meant so much to me and I'm glad I've lived so I could meet myself at the end of the road. . . .

"Here in Arkansas we have become web-footed, but we shall never be lame ducks. I came home in the rain and am gone with the wind. She signed her name, but she might not want to see it in print. I wonder if it will give you the picture that it gave me, of a courageous soul who could carry her burden and give cheer by the way.

KC is economical. Because of its high leavening strength only 1 level teaspoonful to a cup of flour is sufficient for most recipes.

It is a time saver. That's due to the double action. One action in the mix and the second, a stronger action, in the oven. You can prepare dough for biscuits, muffins, etc., hours in advance, set in a cool place and bake when desired. No need for hurry when using KC.

U. S. COURT DISMISSES

CITRUS SHIPMENT WRIT

Wallace, Florida Attorneys

Named in Bill To Enforce

Agreement.

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 9.—(P)—Federal Judge Alexander Akerman today dismissed an application of six fruit shippers to enjoin three of Florida's four United States attorneys from enforcing sections of the AAA marketing agreement for protection of Florida citrus shipments.

He reserved decision as to the four attorneys named in the bill of complaint, pending additional arguments set for tomorrow morning.

The restraining order was sought by the same group which last week was denied a permanent injunction against the citrus control committee.

In an amendment to their original bill they named the four United States attorneys as additional defendants to the 11 members of the control committee and Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

Wallace Berry visits the Beverly Hills Brown Derby three times a week at 11 at night, in order to read the morning newspaper. . . . It is fortunate for Director of Industry Van Dyke that the "resembling Garbo," if it makes any sense to you. However, the disgruntled actress has just had her contract renewed, and Garbo is again threatening to return to her native Sweden at the completion of "Madame Walewska," so she is hoping to see the light of screen before the end of 1937. . . . Academy Award winner, the actress Victor McLaglen entertained Shirley Temple on the set of "Wee Willie Winkie" by getting down on his hands and knees and acting like a water buffalo.
